WHAT IS REMOTE KEY INJECTION (RKI)?

RKI is the process of downloading a pin/data encryption key eliminating the need for merchants to ship their terminals to a secure certified third-party for key injection. RKI allows keys to be remotely and securely injected using factor y installed certificates. The key then gives the terminal authority to conduct debit transactions. After the RKI team receive the key from the key exchange team and add into the server. Next the Acquirer should inform the ISO to email rkisupport@pax.us and tell us which marketplace to add the key if not the key just sits in the server unused.

Conveniently and quickly deploy key injection from anywhere and at anytime.

Faster and more secure.

Instantaneously or real-time update service on terminals

No need for expensive secure rooms and equipment.
